Biography

Jeremy I. Goldman practices law in the areas of commercial real estate, business transactions, commercial lending, leasing and entity formation and operation. Mr. Goldman's practice encompasses the representation of clients in all aspects of commercial real estate transactions, including the acquisition, sale, financing and development of office buildings, retail shopping centers, industrial sites and raw land.

Mr. Goldman is originally from Long Island, New York, and in 1998 received his B.A. in English with a minor in Business and Liberal Arts from Queens College, where he graduated with high honors, summa cum laude. While in college, he studied for one year in Jerusalem, Israel, where he engaged in an intense analysis of Jewish and Israeli law and philosophy. Mr. Goldman received his J.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania School of Law in 2001, where he was senior editor of the Journal of Constitutional Law. While in law school he served as a judicial intern to The Honorable Denis R. Hurley of the United States District Court, Eastern District of New York.

Prior to moving to Maryland, Mr. Goldman was a real estate associate at the New York offices of Weil, Gotshal & Manges LLP, and before joining Lerch, Early & Brewer, he practiced real estate law at the D.C. offices of Bingham McCutchen LLP. Mr. Goldman is admitted to practice law in New York and the District of Columbia.
